Pre-nuptial agreements are an ongoing hot topic for family lawyers. His Honour Judge Stephen Wildblood QC & Claire Wills Goldingham will give delegates and authoritative update on recent cases and the current state of law.

HHJ Stephen Wildblood QC has been a regular and popular speaker in the Society's seminar programme. Before being appointed Judge, Stephen Wildblood was a dedicated family practitioner and was considered sharp, tough and good with clients and colleagues.

Claire Wills Goldingham was called to the Bar in 1988, she specialises in family law and deals with a wide range of matters including public and private children law, acting for local authorities; guardians, CAFCASS and parents. She also has extensive experience in matrimonial finance matters with a particular interest in cases involving pensions, corporate and farming issues.
