

Slavery and human trafficking statement

Like many of our members, the Devon & Somerset Law Society is committed to promoting the rule of law, a sense of fairness and access to justice, both at home and abroad.

Devon & Somerset Law Society is the local professional and representational body for solicitors in Devon and Somerset.

We are committed to taking appropriate actions to ensure that modern slavery practices are not present in the organisation, within its supply chain or any other associated activities.

We endeavour to never engage with external parties involved in or connected to modern slavery or human trafficking.

Our procurement activity is generally limited to a small number of locally based providers with whom we have strong long standing working relationships. Our use of suppliers does not involve high risk activities such as production or sourcing outside of the United Kingdom or the European Union.
